Accumulation IUL and Protection Term are the only products approved for sale in New York.

Variable life insurance is sold by product and fund prospectus, which should be read carefully. They contain information on the investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses of the variable product and its underlying investment options. These factors should be considered carefully before investing.

Variable universal life insurance has annual fees and expenses associated with it in addition to life insurance-related charges. Variable universal life insurance products are subject to market risk and are unsuitable as a short-term savings vehicle. Cash values are not guaranteed and will fluctuate, and the policy may lose value.

The Accelerated Death Benefit for Terminal Illness rider provides a “living benefit” if the insured is certified to be terminally ill. Benefits may be taxable under current tax law. Clients should consult their personal tax advisers regarding the tax implications of benefits received under the accelerated benefit.

The benefits provided by the Accelerated Death Benefit for Chronic Illness rider are designed to be excludable from gross income under federal tax law; however, there might be situations in which the benefits or charges for this rider are taxable.

The Total Disability rider is available to issue until age 55. If disability occurs before age 60, premiums are waived until recovery or the termination of the contract, whichever is earlier.

The Critical Illness Benefit rider provides a one-time, lump-sum benefit for covered critical illnesses subject to eligibility requirements. The benefit will not be paid for critical illnesses initially diagnosed before the rider effective date or during the waiting period. See the product guide for additional details. John Hancock anticipates that the Critical Illness Benefit paid under this rider will generally be excludable from income under Internal Revenue Code Section 104(a)(3). However, the benefit may not qualify for this exclusion with certain third-party ownership arrangements.

When the Overloan Protection rider causes the policy to be converted into a fixed policy, there is risk that the Internal Revenue Service could assert that the policy has been effectively terminated, and the outstanding loan balance treated as a distribution. Depending on the circumstances, all or part of such deemed distribution may be taxable as income. The policy owner should consult a tax professional as to the risk associated with exercising the Overloan Protection rider.

There may be underwriting limitations for the Return of Premium rider on the cumulative amount that can be returned. Not available in conjunction with certain other riders.

The Long-Term Care (LTC) rider is an accelerated death benefit rider and may not be considered long-term care insurance in some states. The Maximum Monthly Benefit Amount is $50,000. When the death benefit is accelerated for long-term care expenses, it is reduced dollar for dollar, and the cash value is reduced proportionately.

The Chronic Illness rider allows for an acceleration of the death benefit when the insured is certified as chronically ill. The maximum monthly benefit amount is the lower of $30,000 or the IRS per diem limit for a given month. Accelerated benefit payments under this rider reduce the death benefit dollar for dollar by the accelerated amount and reduce the policy value proportionately. There is a monthly charge for this rider. The benefits provided by this optional rider are designed to be excludable from gross income under federal tax law; however, there might be situations in which the benefits or charges for this rider are taxable. This rider is not long-term care insurance.

Insurance policies and/or associated riders and features may not be available in all states. Some riders may have additional fees and expenses associated with them.
